

Kevin Sass
Winemaker

Kevin Sass is a Southern California native growing up in Agoura Hills. Kevin graduated from California State University, Fresno with a double major in Enology Wine Production and Agricultural Business in spring of the year 2000. “I feel fortunate to have graduated from such a dedicated hands on University. Fresno State built a solid winemaking base which allowed me to concentrate and learn more about how quality grapes make quality wine.” He then joined the JUSTIN team as an intern for the 2000 harvest working to gain experience in the industry and was subsequently hired on the following January (2001) to oversee all Grower relations and help in the winery. During Kevin’s time as the Grower Relations Manager he worked closely with all JUSTIN Vineyards and Winery growers and interacted with many industry consultants.

In January of 2002 Kevin was promoted to Assistant Winemaker, in 2003 he was promoted again to Associate Winemaker. In January 2006, Kevin was named winemaker of JUSTIN and his current position includes managing the JUSTIN white wine and highly coveted Syrah programs as well all day-to-day operations at the winery, assisting the grower relations manager with vineyard site selection, and contributing to the JUSTIN Tasting Panel for all tasting and blending trials.
